

Contents

---

Credit	xi
Contributors	xiii
Acknowledgments	xv
Introduction	1
Translator's Note	75
Selected Drama of Franciszka Urszula Radziwiłłowa	79
1. Witty Love	79
2. An Act of Divine Providence	117
3. The Judge Who Lost His Reason	137
4. Love is Born in the Eyes	173
5. Dishonesty Entrapped	233
6. Consolation after Troubles	261
7. Gold in the Fire	311
Selected Verse of Franciszka Urszula Radziwiłłowa	343
1. Letters to her husband. First letter	343
2. Woe	344
3. Apologia for the wrath of a certain lady against the attentions of the importunate Mr. Pac	344
4. Epitaph to my son Mikoła Radziwiłł, who died in Biała in 1729 at the age of three years	344
5. O God, defender of the whole wide world	347
6. A song	347
7. A song	348
8. Admonition to value the life eternal more than the temporal	349
9. Admonition to form a modest opinion of oneself	349
10. Recipe for a courtier's etiquette	351
11. On censure	351
12. To priests	351
13. To a fickle lady	352
14. Delusions and contentious thoughts	353
15. If you know how to read people's character	354
16. What good is love that's not returned?	354
17. It's hard to set your will against your fate	355

18. Response to her husband ...	356
19. Freedom of choice is the rule in love	359
20. If fate bestows a figure quite divine	359
21. The constant conflict heart and mind are in	360
22. A song	361
23. Such strong emotions in my heart	361
24. Emotions insincere, just seeking pleasure	362
25. Ah! When will my torments cease?	363
Appendix	365
Bibliography	369
Index	385